will be the attractions at English's next week. The former will be presented the first five nights of the week and at a mattie Blair Parker, and tells a story of rural New England life. Mr. Jefferson will play "Rip Van Winkle" on Saturday afternoon, and two of the shorter plays in his repertory at night.

William Collier, a quiet and intelligently effective comedian, will give three performances of Augustus Thomas's comedy. "On the Quiet," at English's Friday and Saturday nights and Saturday afternoon. The approaching visit to this city of Joseph Jefferson recalls a warning the old actor gave to his young colleague. "See here, Willie," he said, "don't get too straight; be careful; make 'em laugh." The chief merit in Mr. Collier's acting is that it is "straight," or legitimate, and it is to be hoped that he will not follow Mr. Jefferson's advice. If this comedian continues to get increasingly good plays he will be famously the first of his line.

Billy Link, a monologuist at the Grand Dr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Eastman and Dr. Opera House this week, plays a trick on his audiences, which, though not new, remains valuable. He begins to sing a silly song about men that "rubberneck" at women crossing the street en a rainy day. At the end of the first verse two ushers begin to quarrel loudly at the back of the house. One orders the other to leave the theater, and as the talk grows more and more bitter most of the persons on the lower floor twist around in their seats to see what the trouble is. Link then cries "Rubberneck!" and quits the stage. The audiences are so easily amused that they appland Link for this. His act pleases all to cross the Mediterranean he succeeded in breaking all ballooning records, as he remained in the air more than forty-one hours, during which time he succeeded in keeping the balloon from two to four meters above the level of the sea, thus solving the problem of maintaining stabilfor forty-eight hours, but would have been driven ashore. He only threw out ballast once a day and this was at sunset to compensate for the loss of gas. With the deviator he was able to deviate 30 degrees from the course of the wind and occasion ally the deviation was as much as 45 degrees. He attributes his failure to the weather, the violence of the wind and the bad quality of the gas he used. No strik-

The Standard Oil party a year or more ago was accused of contemplating the purchase of leading banking institutions in the more important cities of the country. There stockholders in the national city are now large owners of shares of national banks Chicago, St. Louis and Boston and posibly other cities. The banks in special fafor with Stillman are those having a forign exchange business, he being credited with an ambition to dominate not only the whole thing" in international transactions, Standard Oil millions are becoming inreasingly powerful in the banking field in Wall street and it has come to the pass that the attitude of the powers behind the National City bank is regarded by marketwise people of first importance in the placmg of bets on fluctations on quotations on stocks. As that great institution continues to extend its influence by the development of its policy for the control of banks in this city and throughout the country its grasp must become the more potential on siness by fewer concerns. Bank specialists are on record as saying that before the end of the decade just entered upon the number of banks in the clearing house associatien, now sixty-two, will be reduced by process of consolidation to thirty or less, Financiers of the first magnitude are carrying into practice the old-time theory that the real power is lodged in the hands of those who have energe of the deposits of Within the year considerable progress has
